NDHS Students Perform in Shenandoah University's Honors Band Event

Three North Dorchester High School students recently had the opportunity to participate in the Honors Band program at Shenandoah University in Winchester, Virginia. Seniors Jacob Dashiell and Kalifa Warren, along with freshman Aiden Hayward were among the region's high school students nominated by NDHS band teacher Mike Hughes and chosen by the college's music department to participate in the event. The students were able to work under the direction of college faculty, both in a large group and in smaller, breakout sessions, playing with some of the top musical talent in the region. Renowned composer Alex Shapiro was also in attendance, and the band performed several of her compositions. Jacob's instrument is the tuba, Kalifa plays the tenor saxophone, and Aiden is a percussionist.
