C-SDHS Sponsors Champion Community-Parent Summit

Cambridge-South Dorchester High School celebrated another successful Champion Community-Parent Summit on October 17. The goal of the summit, organized by C-SD teacher Jacob Coleman, is to keep the community updated on what is happening at the school as well as to build relationships through question and answer sessions, to increase transparency about issues facing C-SD, and engage the community in helping find solutions.

Principal Dave Bromwell reported that C-SD was off to one of the best starts of his career and introduced Assistant Principals Dr. Barnes, Mrs. Payton, and Mr. Nance, thanking them for their hard work and persistence. Mrs. Payton spoke about programs at the school to support the academic program, including Next Generation Scholars and the GearUp Tutoring program. He also discussed ALICE training, a districtwide initiative in response to security threats, as well as health concerns around student use of juuls and vapes.

The open forum saw discussion regarding summits and the PTO, and ideas regarding continuing to build parent and community support for the school. The event concluded with a shared dinner and commitment of the administration to continue to work at expanding summit attendance and participation.
