North Dorchester High School Names January Athletes of the Month

North Dorchester High School has recognized its January Athletes of the Month. The Varsity players selected are Jaheim Copper and Kayley Bradley, while Austin Kimmey and Cami Abbott were chosen for the JV honors.

Jaheim, a junior and member of the basketball team, is “a leader both on and off the court,” according to his coach Rob Smith. “His defense is outstanding, and he can rebound with just about anyone in the league.”

Kayley, a co-captain of the cheer team, is also a junior. She was chosen for this month’s honor not only her skill at the sport, but for her leadership, creativity, and dedication to putting the team first.

Sophomore wrestler Austin was nominated by his coaches for his reliability and hard work. He has not only brought home individual match wins but saw success in the Kent JV Tournament as well.

Cheerleader Cami, also a sophomore, is known for her resilience and enormous effort in the face of health challenges. Her coach said, “She always has a smile on her face and is always willing to give the best she has. She works hard at everything she can do.”

The Varsity awards this month are sponsored by Whitten Insurance. Regal Cinemas sponsors the JV awards.
